

Polar ocean challenge

I'm going on an adventure, on my adventure im going to Giantland to a town called layput where the giants live. This town has a rival town called lillyput. I want go there because I want to know how they work, play and dress but most of all I want to know what Giantland looks like. I saw from my internet search that it looks incredible there are lots of open spaces, with fabulous nature, gloomy caves and dark rocks.

As you see above there are three large giants that have spotted a tiny man lurking around for some shelter. One of the giants asked if he would like some tea to warm up.

From my reasearch I feel bright, excited, safe and worried, some of these feelings are great ones unfortunatly one is a bad because of the fighting between the two towns I am worried I will miss my family and might get hurt, but its worth the risk to be able to see how they live and maybe help. So on my adventure I am taking my dad because he is a loyal, strong person, he has loads of skills to show me. He will show me how to build a shelter and climb trees. He will also keep me safe.

As we set off I will take :

A Camping Lamp because it will help us see in the dark, also to see in gloomy caves.

A pack of food and some drinks to give us energy and keep us hydrated, we will need this where ever we go.

This picture is full of everything you need to explore.

This is part of my family, I will miss these people the most and I am taking this picture.

I am now eager to go because the planning is done.
